TO B.T. Kesavaiengar, Esq., B.A.,
Chief Secretary to the Government of Mysore,
B A N G A L O R E.

SIR,

I am directed to invite the attention of the Government to Criminal Rule of Practice No. 83, dated 1st September 1909 (printed as paragraphs 1 - 13 of Chapter XVI of the Criminal Rules of Practice and Circular Orders as amended up to the end of December 1933, Volume I), which requires District Magistrates to submit to the High Court copies of all their judgments and orders in criminal cases within 24 hours of pronouncing them and all other Magistrates to submit copies of all their judgments and orders within 24 hours to the District Magistrate, who is to send on the copies received by him from First Class Magistrates to the Sessions Judge. District Magistrates and Sessions Judges are required to examine carefully all the copies of judgments and orders received by them. These requirements apply to both serious and trivial cases. So far as the Judges of the High Court are aware, in no part of British India are copies of all their judgments and orders submitted by Magistrates to superior authorities, as required by this rule. In the Madras Presidency, where more appears to be required in this way than elsewhere, no copies of judgments or orders are submitted in cases of minor importance. In the opinion of the Judges it is desirable that in respect of cases regarding the more serious classes of offences the practice of subordinate Magistrates submitting copies of their judgments and orders to the District Magistrate should be maintained in order that the District Magistrate may be able to watch the work of the Magistrates subordinate to him and discharge his responsibility in recommending revision when necessary. Nor do the Judges at present recommend that the practice of Sessions Judges submitting copies of their judgments and final orders to the High Court should be altered or that of the District Magistrates doing so in cases regarding the more serious classes of offences. But in the opinion of the Judges it is quite unnecessary that a District Magistrate should be expected to read a copy of the judgment or order in every petty case disposed of by every Magistrate subordinate to him which indeed in these days would often be an almost impossible feat. It may be added that it is remarkable that the rule requiring the submission of a copy of every judgment and order should be maintained in Mysore, where generally the legal qualifications of Magistrates are better than elsewhere. There can be little doubt that, if District Magistrates were required to read copies of judgments and orders only in the more serious cases, they would be able to give better attention to those copies which they received. And, if the trying Magistrates had to submit copies of their judgments and orders only in comparatively serious cases, there would be a great saving of time, labour and stationery, in all of which the present system is extravagant. The Judges therefore propose that the present rule be modified so as to require trying Magistrates to submit to superior authorities copies of their judgments and final orders only in cases regarding serious offences punishable under the Penal Code (other than cases tried summarily, cases ending in discharge or acquittal on account of compounding, failure to prosecute, etc.), cases under Chapters VIII, X, XI, XII and XXXVI of the Code of Criminal Procedure, cases ending in discharge under Section 209 of the Code of Criminal Procedure and appeals.

But the District Magistrate must exercise supervision also over the disposal of petty cases and see whether they are disposed of with reasonable promptness, whether reasonable sentences are imposed on conviction, whether accused persons are detained in custody unnecessarily, etc. In order that he may do so the Judges propose that each Magistrate subordinate to the District Magistrate shall submit to the District Magistrate not later than 8th day of each month a list of all criminal cases disposed of by him in the previous month in a tabular form giving information sufficient to enable the District Magistrate to form an opinion whether it is necessary for him to call for records or explanation in respect of any particular case.

A draft rule to carry out these proposals and to take the place of Criminal Rule of Practice No. 83 has been prepared and is appended to this letter. In drafting it opportunity has been taken to prescribe more reasonable periods for the submission of copies of judgments and orders, where still required, than the 24 hours now prescribed for Magistrates' cases and the 48 hours for sessions cases, which it is very often impossible to observe.

I am to request that the Government may be pleased to sanction the draft rule appended under Section 554 of the Code of Criminal Procedure. It may be hoped that the new rule, if sanctioned, will make the work of District Magistrates in supervising the Magistrates subordinate to them at once less burdensome and more effective; and it will undoubtedly be economical and save time and labour in Magistrates' offices.

I have the honour to be,
Sir,
Your most obedient servant,

KSR.

Rule of Practice No. dated .....

[Under Section 554 of the Code of Criminal Procedure and with the previous sanction of the Government the High Court hereby makes the following rule in substitution for Criminal Rule of Practice No.83, dated 1st September 1909, (printed as paragraphs 1 - 13 of Chapter XVI of the Criminal Rules of Practice and Circular Orders as amended up to the end of December 1933, Volume I) viz.]

2. Additional Sessions Judges and Assistant Sessions Judges will submit the copies of their judgments and orders through the Sessions Judge of the Division in which they are working.

3. District Magistrates will submit to the High Court a copy of every judgment or final order, other than an order of discharge under Section 209 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, pronounced by them within a week after the date on which it is pronounced with a tabular statement giving particulars of the case in Form A appended in cases heard by them, including proceedings under Chapters VIII, X, XI, XII, and XXXVI of the Code of Criminal Procedure, but excluding

(a) cases tried summarily under Chapter XXII of the Code of Criminal Procedure,

4. Magistrates other than District Magistrates will submit to their District Magistrate a copy of every judgment or final order, other than an order of discharge under Section 209 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, pronounced by them within 4 days after it is pronounced with a tabular statement giving particulars of the case in Form A appended except in cases of the kinds excluded in sub-rule 3 above.

5. Each Magistrate other than a District Magistrate will submit to his District Magistrate not later than the 8th day of each month a statement in Form B appended showing in order of disposal particulars as indicated by that form of each case disposed of by him in the previous month in respect of which he is not required by sub-rule 4 above to submit a copy of the judgment or final order.

6. District Magistrates will examine all copies of judgments and orders submitted to them under sub-rule 4 above and report at once to the High Court any case which in their opinion requires revision by the High Court. District Magistrates will forward to the Sessions Judge of the Division without delay the copies of judgments and final orders of Magistrates of the First Class received by them and inform the Sessions Judge of any action they have taken in regard to such judgments or orders. District Magistrates will also examine the entries in the statements in Form B submitted to them and call for the records of any case in which the particulars entered in any such statement lead them to think that desirable.

7. Sessions Judges will examine all copies of judgments or final orders of Magistrates of the First Class received by them and will report at once to the High Court any case which in their opinion requires revision by the High Court except where the District Magistrate has already done so.

8. A copy of every order of discharge under Section 209 of the Code of Criminal Procedure will be submitted within 4 days of the date on which it is made with a tabular statement giving particulars of the case in Form A appended, if made by a District Magistrate, to the Sessions Judge direct and, if made by any other Magistrate, to the District Magistrate, who will forward it without delay to the Sessions Judge of the Division and inform the Sessions Judge of any action he has taken in regard to such order. The Sessions Judge after examining them will submit all copies of such orders of discharge without delay to the High Court.

APPEAL AND REVISION CASES.

The District Magistrate after examining the copy of the judgment will forward it without delay to the Sessions Judge.

11. The following are some of the points to which Sessions Judges and District Magistrates should direct their attention when examining copies of judgments and orders submitted to them under this rule :-

(b) dealing with disputed claims of right under colour of a charge of criminal trespass or mischief and convictions of those offences without a finding as to criminal intent,

(c) the suitability of the punishment inflicted on youthful offenders,

(d) the judicious or injudicious use of the powers conferred by
